SANTANDER'S JOSEPHINE MORAN NAMED ONE OF THE "TOP WOMEN IN BUSINESS IN STATEN ISLAND"

BOSTON, September 14, 2015 – Josephine Moran, Executive Vice President/Region President for Metro New York - Northern New Jersey at Santander Bank, N.A., and a resident of Jackson, New Jersey, has been named one of the "Top Women in Business in Staten Island" by Schneps Communications.

At Santander, Moran oversees sales and services for more than 147 retail branches and 1,100 team members in the Metro New York – Northern New Jersey area, which includes seven counties in Northern and Central New Jersey and five New York City boroughs.

According to Schneps Communications, Moran was selected due to her special service to the Staten Island community and ability to make a difference in the lives of those touched by her work.

Schneps Communications is an independently owned publisher of local community newspapers, magazines, websites and the Star Network. The Star Network was founded by Victoria Schneps more than 15 years ago and has brought together community and business leaders by recognizing outstanding individuals.

"Josephine is a talented leader who knows how to motivate her team and ensure we're bringing the best possible services to our customers," said Maria Tedesco, managing director of retail banking and customer experience for Santander Bank. "Her contributions and commitment to the Bank, to her community and to promoting job growth and small business opportunities serve as an example for all of us. This recognition is very well-deserved."

Moran was honored on September 10, 2015 at an awards ceremony held in the Staten Island Hilton's Nicotra's Ballroom.

In addition to her work at Santander, Moran is active in the Staten Island community, working with the Borough President's Job Fair program to create employment opportunities for Staten Island residents, and working with the Small Business Development Corporation to promote small business growth. Moran serves on boards for the March of Dimes State Chapter of New Jersey and the New Jersey Institute of Technology's School of Management, while also serving on the University of New Haven (UNH) College Of Business Advisory Board, serving as chairperson of the UNH Women in Leadership Conference, and serving as a director on the Santander Foundation Board.

Moran is a graduate of the University of New Haven, where she received her master's in finance and financial planning.
