A Division of Santander Securities LLC

Introduction

Santander Securities LLC is both a broker-dealer and an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). We are a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). You should know that brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ. It is important for you to understand these differences.

Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

This document gives you a summary of the types of services and products we provide and how you pay. There are some suggested questions below. If you would like more information, please ask us.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer both brokerage and investment advisory services to retail investors. These services are summarized below. Depending on your individual needs and investment objectives, we can provide you with services in a brokerage account, an investment advisory account, or both at the same time.

Brokerage Services

We are an introducing broker-dealer, clearing through Pershing LLC on a fully disclosed basis. Our primary brokerage services include buying and selling securities. We may also make recommendations about securities to retail investors. When we make investment recommendations, you make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments. We do not provide monitoring of brokerage accounts. We do not offer proprietary products, but you should know that we offer a limited selection of investments, within a limited set of product sponsors, such as mutual funds, fixed income, and variable and indexed annuities, and do not seek to make available the lowest cost investments. Other firms could offer a wider range of choices, including lower cost choices. You should also know that certain products we offer, such as mutual funds and annuities, have minimum investment amounts of between $0 and $50,000.

Investment Advisory Services

Our investment advisory services include financial planning and access to wrap-fee programs, including fund strategist portfolios, unified managed accounts and separately managed accounts sponsored by Envestnet Asset Management, Inc. As part of our standard investment advisory services, we review each advisory account at least annually, and may perform additional account reviews in certain circumstances. We are granted investment discretion in advisory accounts. Although certain accounts and third-party platforms may grant us the ability to exercise discretion, it is our general practice not to use discretionary authority. We make recommendations to you about the program or strategy in which to invest, but you make the ultimate decision to select a program or strategy. We do not offer proprietary products, but you should know that we offer a limited selection of investments. Other firms could offer a wider range of choices, including lower cost choices. You must invest a minimum of $25,000 in order to open an advisory account with us.

Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Should I choose a brokerage service? Should I choose both types of services? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

Brokerage

In a brokerage account, you are charged for each transaction you make. These charges include commissions, sales charges, markups, markdowns, and dealer spreads. You will pay more total transaction charges when there are more transactions in your account. We therefore have an incentive to encourage you to trade often. In brokerage accounts, we also charge custodian fees, account maintenance fees, and other transaction and product fees. These fees are generally charged annually, or at the time the particular event occurs.

Investment Advisory Services

When you open an advisory account, you will pay an ongoing asset-based fee for our services, based on the value of the cash and securities held within your account. Advisory fees are billed quarterly in advance. Paying an asset-based fee could cost more or less than separately paying for each transaction depending on the level of trading in your account. The more assets you have in an advisory account, the more you will pay us. We therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account in order to increase the fees we receive. We do not charge a separate or additional fee for our financial plans.

In Advisory accounts, we also typically charge custodian fees, account maintenance fees, and other transaction and product fees.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

For additional information, please see our Regulation Best Interest Disclosures, Form ADV, Part 2A brochure at santanderinvestments.com/disclosures

Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations as my broker-dealer or when acting as my investment adviser?

When we provide you with a recommendation as your broker-dealer or act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations and investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

Examples of ways we make money and conflicts of interest:

Proprietary Products: We do not offer proprietary products.

Third-Party Payments: We receive payments from third-party product providers when we recommend and sell their products. This creates an incentive for us to recommend the products of third-party providers that make additional payments to us over those that do not. In advisory accounts, we rebate 12b-1 fees back to our clients' accounts.

Revenue Sharing: We receive revenue sharing for products sold acting as a broker-dealer. This creates an incentive for us to recommend products where we receive revenue sharing over products for which we do not. We do not receive revenue sharing for products or services recommended or offered through our advisory platform.

Principal Trading: We do not engage in principal trading in brokerage accounts.

Brokerage Services

In a brokerage account, we make money by selling you products. Because we get paid when you complete a transaction, we have an incentive to encourage you to purchase more products, and make more frequent purchases. Certain products, such as annuities, include continuing payments to us, known as "trails." We have an incentive to recommend investment products that include trails, even if other investments available to you have lower costs or may perform better.

For some products, we receive higher compensation than on other products. We have an incentive to encourage you to buy products that pay us more, even if other options might be better for you.

When our interests conflict with your interests, we must eliminate these conflicts or tell you about them and, in some cases, take steps to reduce them.

In a brokerage account, when our interests conflict with your interests, we must eliminate these conflicts or tell you about them and, in some cases, take steps to reduce them. Conflicts may result in you paying more for your investments than you would if the conflict did not exist.

Investment Advisory Services

In an advisory account, we are paid a fee based on the total assets in your account. We have an incentive to encourage you to maximize the total assets in your account either through investing with us, or adding cash or other investments to your account. We also have an incentive to engage in transactions that result in higher total assets in your account. For more information about conflicts in advisory accounts, go to Form ADV 2B at santanderinvestments.com/disclosures

In an advisory account, when our interests conflict with your interests, we must either eliminate the conflict, or tell you about them in a way that you can understand so that you can decide whether or not to agree to them. Conflicts may result in you paying more for your investments, or bringing additional assets into your advisory account, than you would if the conflict did not exist.

For more information, about conflicts in brokerage accounts, see our brokerage disclosure at santanderinvestments.com/disclosures

Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals make money in a number of different ways. In a brokerage account, they are paid commissions for sales of products and, in some instances, ongoing compensation known as trails. The sale of certain products, such as variable annuities, provide a financial consultant with higher commissions than other products, such as fixed annuities.

In an advisory account, they are paid a percentage of the total value of assets in your account, as well as ongoing compensation known as trails.

In both account types, they are paid additional compensation based on the assets they bring in to the Firm, known as a Net Asset Flow Bonus.

In addition, on an annual basis the top producers (meaning the highest earning financial professionals) are rewarded with a vacation trip at the Firm's expense.
